Volume 11, Issue #8, August 2015

Wednesday, 19 August 2015

Dear Colleagues, Friends and Supporters of OIRF,

☞ Here we are in the long, hot, dry final days of summer with vacations ending. Preparations for the many fall events and activities are finalized. Nonetheless the days and weeks do keep slipping past and it is definitely time for you to think about which conferences will fill in your schedule and to make sure your clinic calendar is cleared and your travel plans in place.

Deadlines are fast approaching for the famous “Curing the Incurables” conference in St. Louis. Details are included several times in this issue and are readily available online. I urge all of you to make the effort to participate in this important event. Neurotransmitter Therapy

(OIRF Medical Advisor)

I'm going to switch gears a little bit in this article. However, one can conceive of the neurotransmitters as the interface of physical and energetic regulation. After all, it is the neurotransmitters that stimulate the electrical discharge of the neurons, creating an energetic field of action.

The testing and treatment of neurotransmitter dysfunction is complex and grossly misunderstood by the majority of health care providers. In this article I will outline some of the underlying principles and provide sources for more information regarding this work.

Neurotransmitters do not cross the blood brain barrier, so amino acid precursors must be used. The only ones required are 5-HTP, L-dopa, and tyrosine, as serotonin and dopamine are the master neurotransmitters and the only ones that need to be normalized. Once this is accomplished, all of the other neurotransmitters and other down stream agents will normalize. 5-HTP and L-dopa are used because there is no feedback inhibition of conversion to serotonin and dopamine, respectively. In addition, nutrients required for synthesis are also supplied.

However, to simply supply neurotransmitter precursors is inadequate. L-cysteine must also be supplied in order to prevent the depletion of the methylation system. Any one of the thiols can be used, but L-cysteine is the cheapest agent available, and it is also involved in other functions. Listed below are the interactions that must be considered before the administration of any precursor.

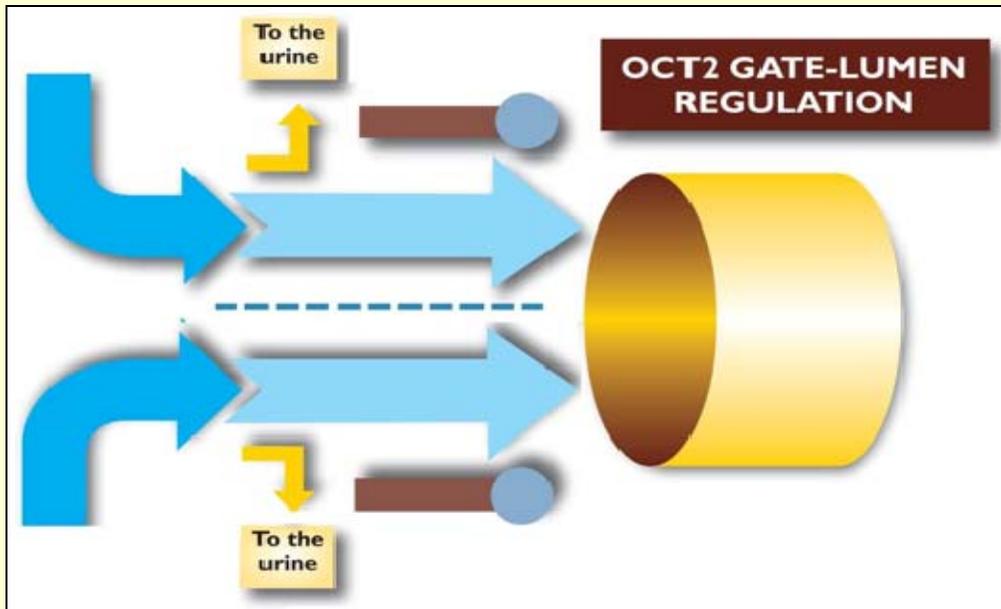

As one can see, using only a single neurotransmitter precursor will deplete the other one, as well as the thiols. Using only a thiol, such as glutathione, will deplete the neurotransmitters.

These amino acids cannot be used indiscriminately, and testing is required to determine the status of the OCT2 receptor. This is the receptor that controls the levels of serotonin and dopamine. If the function of the OCT2 is not returned to normal, the neurotransmitter system will not function optimally.

Urine testing is the only reliable way to measure neurotransmitter levels. BUT, testing before amino acid therapy is started is worthless. All that is measured is a random excretion by the kidneys which is neither reliable nor can it be duplicated. Once therapy is started, the system must be placed in competitive inhibition, at which time urine testing is reliable and valid.

Interpretation of the urine testing is complex. There are three different phases of the OCT2 response: (serotonin is represented by the top blue arrow, dopamine by the lower blue arrow)

	Gate	Lumen
Phase 1	Partially closed	Unsaturated
Phase 2	Open	Unsaturated
Phase 3	Open	Saturated

The system is only functioning at an optimal level when both serotonin and dopamine are in Phase 3.

To complicate matters even more, there are at present three identified ways in which the OCT2 is configured: serotonin dominant, dopamine dominant, and mixed dominant. Each of these types requires a different therapeutic approach in the application of the amino acid precursors. In addition, the dopamine dominant and mixed dominant types require the use of pill stops.

In the pill stop approach, the patient takes the nutrients for five days, then stops all of them for two days. The symptom responses on day five and the second morning of the pill stop are compared, which determines the next dosing change. Urine testing is also utilized for these types, but in a different way than for serotonin dominant patients.

What is really being treated is a relative nutritional deficiency state. Each person has a different dosing requirement of the amino acids. Until that dose is supplied, the system will not function normally. It appears that toxins, drugs, and inappropriately used amino acids are the main reasons for this state of nutritional deficiency. Therefore, each person's dose will be different, and must be determined by testing.

Once the neurotransmitter system is returned to normal, it can take up to three months for all of the downstream effects to take place. This includes control and normalization of:

- All other neurotransmitters
- The hormone system
- Cytokines and immune function
- Nrf2
- Melanin
- Methylation and detox
- Melatonin
- And others

As a result, the following conditions/symptoms are improved, and often completely reversed:

- Parkinson's
- Crohn's/Ulcerative colitis/IBS
- Depression
- Anxiety/Panic attacks
- ADD
- Insomnia
- Fibromyalgia
- Hormone dysfunction

- Migraines
- Dementia
- Adrenal fatigue
- And many more

What I have presented here is a very brief overview of this therapy. For references and more information on this approach, visit www.neurosciencemyths.com. This has all of our papers in full text format. As one can tell from even this brief introduction, the use of amino acids to normalize neurotransmitter function is neither easy nor straightforward. Because of this complexity, seminars and a sixteen-week educational program are offered to train providers in the use of this therapy. It might seem to be a daunting task, but the results are well worth it and provide a powerful tool to help increase the health of your patients.

NOTE: In response to my question whether this can be tested with electronic point and medication testing, Dr. Cole replied: “Unfortunately, there’s no way to test and treat this via device or muscle testing. This is one of those topics that I couldn’t find a direct connection here. One can track the changes that occur via these approaches though.”

And the Cycle Begins Again

By Carolyn L. Winsor, B.Mus., B.Ed.
(OIRF Managing Director and CEO)

As Occidental Institute has worked, struggled and survived through 43 years of research and education in the fields of Acupuncture (TCM) and Biological Medicine we have witnessed, and often participated in, several cycles of acceptance and persecution that have directly affected patients, practitioners and educators.

Within the Naturopathic community we have seen a strong shift to “prescribing”. Studying is done, exams are taken and that coveted permission to prescribe medications, supplements and homeopathics is achieved. In many ways this is closer to the traditional practices of the German Heilpraktikers.

Many of our acupuncturists, chiropractors and natural health therapists have turned to certification in homeopathy or herbalism as a pathway to “prescribing” homeopathics, supplements and herbal remedies.

During recent years in this part of the ever turning cycle we have seen widespread acceptance by government at the federal and state/provincial levels as well as your professional certification boards.

The continued acceptance and certification of acupuncturists, herbalists and general natural health care practitioners along with our longstanding professions including naturopathic, chiropractic and homeopathic practitioners has led to a major decline in the use of instrumental methods within the everyday practice. As the new and younger practitioners enter the field their focus is on prescribing – getting the permissions and stocking a literal pharmacy in their practice.

I understand. For many practitioners the patient intake and consultation – the diagnostics – is only the basic part of your income. On the other hand the majority of your clinic income comes from the sale of remedies out of your pharmacy and the various effective natural therapies you can offer.

Within the past few years we have seen an increase in vaccination controversies. We do not often see a compromise or cooperative opinion regarding vaccinations – it is either “you must get it done” (mandatory vaccinations or your kid cannot go to school) or “no this is poison, don't get it done” (let's use homeopathy instead, or let the kid get sick and build a natural immunity). Seldom is there any in between and now our conflict and “threat levels” increase and the cycle of persecution begins.

Here’s a link to an article that appeared in our local paper (but was more widely published separately): www.pentictonherald.ca/opinion/article_a923a17a-3e38-11e5-86f0-23b94e514610.html. She mentions an episode of “Marketplace” which aired nationally in Canada that reflected the same kind of hysterical response (if you really want to watch it here’s the link: www.youtube.com/watch?v=8cA_oGiNTok).

But notice that the focus of the written piece is vaccinations. Here we now begin to see the response of the pharmaceutical firms to the mounting “threat” that homeopathy represents to their campaign of fear trying to force us into supporting mandatory vaccination. I think the threat we represent in this circumstance is more monetary than it is scientific or political. I find it interesting that the only way this so called researcher (who cannot seem to find the many published studies on homeopathy and even on electronic homeopathy) finds to criticise homeopathy is to mock the research and effectiveness of the method – a method that predates orthodox (school) medicine. Her ignorance of the facts leaves her responding emotionally and inappropriately for those of us who have studied and worked with this method.

For example we have seen the demise of Heel in both Canada and the USA as of August 2014. Heel is a huge and well respected homeopathic firm in Germany and is recognized around the world. But, in Canada for instance it simply became too complicated and costly to obtain the required Health Canada DIN numbers and then to maintain the necessary certifications – only to be hit with huge financial settlements when sued over proven and acknowledged claims. And thus Heel just bowed out of North America. Traumeel is gone along with so many other remedies we relied on for years. [Needless to say I will be stocking up when I’m in Germany this fall for the Biological Medicine Group Tour program!]

Beyond the withdrawal of Heel, the National Center for Homeopathy has been involved in hearings with the FDA for months where we face major changes in the regulations and registrations of even basic homeopathics. And then there is Sanum . . . well the list of withdrawn or no longer available remedies is growing longer by the day.

On the other hand, if we still have our test sets and MORA BioResonance, then we can test the remedies and deliver them through MORA . . . Oops! . . . Wait a minute . . . The use of supporting instrumentation in the everyday practice has fallen off. As an aside here, I recently went in to our local ND for a VEGA diagnostic and to get some recommendations for therapy – remember, I’m a researcher not a practitioner and I’m more than willing to recognize the skill and expertise of our trained testers. He is approaching retirement (as I should also probably be considering) and his daughter (one of our younger Naturopaths) is working in his practice now. I asked if their daughter was learning the testing or working with any of the marvelous Biological Medicine devices they have there, and the answer was very clear: "No, she's not interested and she just doesn't have time".

But now the question arises: Where does this leave our younger and newer practitioners as our powerful and effective remedies are being withdrawn from the market? Thinking back to the criticism and persecution we endured when introducing acupuncture and TCM into North America in the early 1970's, I have to say I've watched these cycles too many times to think we will see a reversal of the persecution part any time soon. We are threatening 'them' – monetarily and politically – with the effectiveness of our remedies and our natural healing methods. As we lose more and more remedies and see a reduction of the acceptance of homeopathy, where do we turn for both diagnostics and therapy?

As our more experienced practitioners who have been so successful in their practices with point and medication testing (whether EAV, VEGA, BFD or even with Darkfield) and the various biological therapy methods (like MORA BioResonance, Ionized Oxygen, BioPhotons, magnetic field) withdraw from practice, who will replace them? And, how will the less experienced practitioners find their way back to these true energetic and biological methods?

Occidental Institute has remained steadfast in presentation of this information and in helping practitioners obtain devices and training. Proven and effective technology methods offer another alternative during these times of change. For those with prescribing abilities, point and medication testing gives you a fast and accurate method of determining which remedies work best in what dosage. Many of these devices offer highly effective therapy through their direct application. In combination such as I have described in previous issues of The Bridge, the effect can be miraculous.

But what about the remedies? This is where BioResonance devices really shine. Especially with the MORA BioResonance devices you can obtain huge libraries of electronically recorded (no, not radionically rated or copied through a simple color recorder) remedy information. There are more test sets than any practitioner could physically collect in our modern era! And yes, there is a huge Heel Test Set (among many others – even Horvi with the snake venoms!). You can test the remedies, and then if you are no longer able to order or stock them, it is possible to transfer the electronic information of the remedies either into drops or directly to the patient. What a concept!

I've heard all the complaints and comments before. "It's too expensive." Or, "I can't prescribe a remedy that way!" Or . . . In terms of the price, you will pay less than you pay for a mid-range automobile (and I know some of you are driving some fancy ones!), the costs are tax deductible as professional expenses, the devices are all designed to be "once in a practice lifetime" purchases and will pay for themselves easily within a year – and for devices like the Beauty within six months.

In terms of 'prescribing' the remedy information the method of delivery to the patient is open. Information can be transferred into sunflower seeds or Vitamin E or an alcohol/water mix. More importantly the information can be delivered directly to the patient during their BioResonance Therapy procedures. Think about it! No more problems with importing, stocking, pricing, or selling remedies. You don't have to eliminate those things that are available and within your professional purview, but the heavy duty effective stuff remains available to you instrumentally. It means you are going to have to figure out a new payment structure, but that seems a small price to pay to maintain the high quality and effectiveness of your patient treatments.

The time is now my friends. It is time to be prepared – not necessarily like the "preppers" and the "survivalists" – but the time to be ready to offer the kinds of natural and biological diagnostic and therapeutic methods that our patients are demanding. Regardless of the media driven fear campaigns, patients are more highly informed and educated regarding health matters and will seek those practitioners who can offer them effective resolution to their health challenges. And because they are our patients, it is our responsibility to offer the best and most effective therapy possible.

With decades of informed experience and research in this field combined with our essentially neutral non-profit status, each of us here at Occidental Institute is able to guide you and assist you in obtaining the devices that will become so necessary in this continuing cycle of persecution and change. We look forward to hearing from you to discuss not only your needs but also your suggestions on how we can ensure these highly effective methods will carry forward into the future.

Your ongoing support of Occidental Institute is both greatly needed and greatly appreciated. Together let us exemplify the symbolism of the powerful and auspicious phoenix arising from the ashes of this persecution to bring about the eternal and classical rebirth of cooperation and acceptance.

Yours in health,

Carolyn

Practice Application:

Reprinted from The Bridge, Volume 10, Issue #6, June 2014.

Hints, Tips and Remarks from Marguerite Lane, ND, Australia

On the occasion that a client (adult or child) has had vaccine(s), I test them for resonance with the toxins, nosodes, and supportive remedies listed below.

I use Dr. Cornelissen's technique, and I prefer the Large Intestine ting point for testing.

Nosodes:

Depends on which vaccines they've had. If they do not know or remember which ones were given, I test all the vaccine nosodes that are in ELH Nosodes test set.

Toxins:

Mercury / Thiomersol
Aluminium
Formaldehyde
Sorbitol
Phenoxyethanol
Hydrolised gelatine

Drainage Remedies:

Thuja
Ant tart
Arsenicum
Lathyrus
Silicea
Stramonium
Variola compositum
Staphysagria

Sarcodes:

Immune system – thymus, spleen, lymphocytes, granulocytes
Brain – Meninges in particular. Possibly other structures, based on any symptoms that present.
If Gardasil® was given, then test the reproductive organs as well.

Bach Flower Essences, if needed:

Crab apple (if they feel dirty)
Impatiens (if they feel stressed)
Mimulus (if they have fear)
Rescue Remedy (if they are out of sorts)

Supportive homeopathic remedies, if reactions to vaccines:

If they are having a suspected reaction to one or more vaccines, then I would test the relevant homeopathic remedies based on their symptoms, such as*:

- Aconitum nap (sudden pain, first choice for inflammation and high fever; fear, anxiety and physical or mental restlessness; doesn't want to be touched)
- Ant tart (chicken pox-like skin eruptions; cough generally present)
- Apis mell (puffiness & oedema; stinging pain; soreness, swelling & an intolerance or aversion to heat; rosy hue of skin; typical allergy reaction; hives with intolerable itching & prickly feel)
- Belladonna (high fever)
- Calc carb (if sx mimic the vaccine disease)
- Chamomilla (peevish, temperamental; hyperactive & restless; colic; extremely sensitive to pain; vomiting; especially useful with restless, whining children who can only be quieted by carrying or comforting)
- Hypericum perforatum (excessive painfulness)
- Ledum pal (Chilly, lack of body heat; best if given immediately after vaccination)
- Pulsatilla (great sensitivity; tearful, clingy & weeping; wants to be cuddled; unpredictable or contradictory emotional nature)

* I originally came across this list in an excellent article in the Townsend Letter. Here is the reference: Brynoff Steve, Dec 2006. "Preventative Homeopathy; a historical perspective" Townsend Letter, Dec 2006 p 82.

Treatments:

Treatments will be Cornelissen's #078 (Remedy Transfer Program with Basic Therapy)
ELH: drainage remedies, sarcodes, Bach Flower Essences, supportive homeopathic remedies

Followed by Cornelissen's #077 (Universal Neutralisation Program)
ELH: nosodes, toxins

MORA BioResonance Therapeutic Possibilities

Getting the BEST out of your MORA Technology

Date: Thursday, September 10, 2015 (9 AM – 4 PM)

Location: Prevention & Healing Clinic, 10908 Schuetz Road, St. Louis MO

Intended audience: For beginners and advanced MORA® BioResonance users. For whatever model you are using, learn the true BioResonance Therapy applications.

You have the MORA, but how do you get the best out of it? This one-day lecture course guides you gently, starting with how to think about the way the MORA works, how to think about your patient's health problems, and how to match the two for optimum treatments.

For beginners, or for those who need a refresher, the basic concepts of classical BioResonance are clarified. Learn how to immediately provide effective treatments even if you don't know what you're doing yet.

As the day progresses, you receive expert guidance on how to tackle the most common underlying problems in health, including candidiasis, influenza, hay fever, food intolerances, "tummy bugs", Lyme disease, dental support, and hormonal issues. You will also learn how to verify that the treatment you've given has already been effective. Cases are presented to provide additional concrete information and summarize the day's information.

Lecture course features Marguerite Lane, ND from Australia. She has been in full time private practice since 2002 and has used the MORA Super since 2003. She is specialized in the BioResonance techniques of Dr. Gottfried Cornelissen of Germany.

This course is sponsored by Occidental Institute Research Foundation and presented in conjunction with the Gateway Fdn. for Biological & Integrative Medicine.

For information about attending this pre-conference program, please contact the Conference Director at director@iamconf.com. See further information on the Curing the Incurables conference, Sept. 11-13, 2015 at <http://www.iamconf.com/>

Oxygen Ion 3000 with VNS Diagnosis 3000

By Prof. Dr. Ivan Engler, Inhaled Ionized Oxygen Therapy
From CS Tronic, Austria

The Oxygen Ion 3000/by Dr. Engler is a so-called oxygen-ionizator which enables you to enrich medical oxygen with electrical charge carriers in the form of “oxygen-cations” or “oxygen-anions”. The administration of enriched oxygen is carried out via an oxygen mask. The oxygen quantity varies between 4 and 8 liters, yet the changed charge quantity has to be considered. The therapeutic session lasts 12 minutes. As an alternative, oxygen concentrators may be used instead of oxygen cylinders.

Because of the state-of-the-art processor technology, the respective polarities are changed over automatically, without having to switch the oxygen supply. A data interface to VNS Diagnosis allows an automatic therapeutic transmission from the diagnosis device VNS Diagnosis 3000/by Dr. Engler.

As an ideal complement to Oxygen Ion 3000/by Dr. Engler, VNS Diagnosis 3000/by Dr. Engler supports your diagnostic procedure. VNS Diagnosis 3000/by Dr. Engler measures the capacity and the resistance between both gold electrodes and forms an optic display of the vegetative situation in the form of a LED-diagram. Of course there is the possibility to read off the measured values as direct numbers as well and can be interpreted individually. Because of similarities to the Oxygen Ion 3000/by Dr. Engler, a display of therapeutic proposals was also integrated. A data wire immediately transmits the therapeutic proposal to the Oxygen Ion 3000/by Dr. Engler, from which a further program selection can be started afterwards. The shape of the gilded electrode plates is handy and therefore facilitates the reproducibility of the measured results.

“EXTENSION TRAINING” PROGRAM IN MODERN & TRADITIONAL ACUPUNCTURE

Over twelve hundred pages of printed materials incorporating applicable materials from the supplementary textbook (An Outline of Chinese Acupuncture) and set of four charts (by China Cultural Corp.). Program starts off assuming you know nothing about acupuncture (a good place to start even if only as a thorough review of the basics) and takes you right through to the most heavy-duty advanced aspects of true, ‘energetical’ acupuncture. The finest and most comprehensive material in the English language, covers all seventy-one meridians of traditional acupuncture; that ‘missing sixty percent’ of acupuncture knowledge most “acupuncturists” have never even heard of; and, the modern electronic ‘needle-less’ treatment methods (Electro-Acupoint Therapy) now so popular.

Over 3,000 students were originally enrolled in this famous Extension Training Program, and the OICS graduate listings read like a “Who’s Who of Acupuncture” in the English speaking world. This program takes you as far as anyone possibly can in a ‘written’ format prior to the clinical finesse and practicum needed to round out your acupuncture study to professional levels.

FULL THIRTY-THREE LESSON PROGRAM NOW AVAILABLE ON DVD
