THE BRIDGE

Linking Practitioners of German Biological Medicine

Volume 12, Issue #7, July 2016

Monday, 18 July 2016

Dear Colleagues, Friends and Supporters of OIRF,

👉 Welcome to Volume 12, Issue #7 of "The Bridge" newsletter!

With this first summer Issue we are bringing you a few "treats" and some very interesting updates. First, here is another editorial from your esteemed Director Carolyn Winsor called "And the Future is Now . . ." that we hope will get you thinking. Then, here is a special article by Dr. Gottfried Cornelissen and Dr. Jens Tesmer talking about "Foci and Disturbance Fields in the Dental and Lower Jaw Areas "Victim" or "Perpetrator": The Causal Analysis with System Diagnostics". This article gives you detailed information on the assessment of the causal basis of dental foci with practical BioResonance applications.

Next month we will again be featuring an article from OIRF Medical Advisor Ted Cole, DO who promises us something interesting on PEMF.

👉 Here's a "Sneak Preview" of the UBS 315 device from Medical Electronics (Mr. Dieter Jossner of BioPhoton Therapy fame!). This small piece of innovative technology will revitalize regular water. It's not a filter, but the change in the quality of the water is immediately apparent. We saw this device demonstrated during our 2015 tour program. Mr. Jossner did darkfield on two of our participants, got them to drink some of the revitalized water, and then about 20 minutes later did another darkfield. This was not just interesting – it was incredibly impressive. So, here's a link to some recently published information, and we'll be sending more information about the Ultra compact Bioenergetic Stimulator UBS 315 later this month.

👉 Note: At this time, OIRF has added one further conference to our busy 2016 fall and winter schedule. The ACIM Cancer Conference in Orlando, Florida, Sept. 22-25, 2016 will feature lectures from two of our OIRF Medical Advisors (Dr. Simon Yu and Dr. Dan Beilin) among many other respected physicians and researchers. OIRF will have an exhibit area at this conference and we look forward to seeing and meeting you there. See further details under the "Conferences and Conventions" segment of this newsletter.

➡ Registrations for the Institute's 43rd Biological Medicine Tour to Germany are being received on a regular basis and we have every indication this will be one of the best attended tour programs in years. We highly recommend early application to ensure your participation in this unique educational event. The major arrangements for the program have been finalized and the speakers confirmed. Based on our tour program theme of "Experience and Science: Diagnosis and Treatment Possibilities with High Practical Relevance", we are looking forward to the latest information and research in our field especially as it affects application of our well known and recognized therapies including MORA BioResonance, BioPhoton Therapy, Ionized Oxygen Therapy, Pulsed Electromagnetic Field Therapy and so many more. There is always ample time for questions and hands-on. Shall we do a "Top 10 List" of reasons to participate in this tour program à la David Letterman?

And the Future is Now . . .

By Carolyn L. Winsor, Managing Director, OIRF

© Copyright 2016, CL Winsor, OIRF, British Columbia Canada

There are times when we all sit back and wonder about the future and about what we will be doing in 5 or 10 or more years. It's just a natural response when we think about family, or consider what's happening in our practice today, or when we are making a business plan for next year, or . . . As many of us who have pioneered and worked in this amazing field of Biological Medicine start to – dare I say it – age gracefully, thoughts of the future and how this form of medicine will transform in the coming years become foremost as we move forward.

At other times, it is a matter of looking back and pondering the innovation and sheer invention of the great ones from our past like Dr. Hahnemann, Dr. Voll, Dr. Schimmel, Dr. Morell and so many, many others. For example, homeopathy is more than 250 years old while Occidental Institute turned 44 early this month (OMG, how did that happen?!).

Many of us have experienced and benefitted from their imaginative development of point and medication testing and BioResonance Therapy. But how will these methods take us into the future? By now we all know the story of Polaroid, and how with the implementation of digital cameras that largest supplier of photographic film went bankrupt in a matter of a few years. And yet, are we taking that purely business lesson into consideration in our modern Biological Medicine practice?

“The secret of change is to focus all of your energy, not on fighting the old, but on building the new.” Socrates

I read with interest the article by Dr. Ronald Klatz of A4M fame regarding “Predictions in Technology and Health” (<http://www.worldhealth.net/news/predictions-technology-health/>) posted June 6, 2016. This is a nicely laid out article that is certainly thought provoking on many different levels.

But now it's time to apply some of those predictions in our own practices if we are to remain modern, innovative and prepared for the future of information, energy and biological medicine. And for me these three terms tie the concept into a viable focus to move forward. Afterall, we are working with information – no matter whether we are talking about homeopathy, BioResonance, BioPhotons, PEMF or whatever, we are not only measuring the information of the body but are then utilizing energy and other biological methods to deliver that healing information back to the body.

Think about it for a minute. This past week the Juno probe reached Jupiter after traveling for 5 years. If a human was to attempt such a journey (yeah, I know Star Trek fan that I am) how will they take care of their medical needs? There is no possible way to pack a whole pharmacy, doctor's office and hospital into the long distance spacecraft. All such aspects would need to be self sufficient and self regenerating, wouldn't they?

Just like with Polaroid we have examples of their scenario of obsolescence playing out in Europe with the large homeopathic companies. I remember visiting the Staufen Pharma (Müller Göppingen) Company with our tour groups many years ago. It was a huge plant and I would estimate they had over 500 employees. Homeopathy was at a peak of acceptance and application throughout Europe and many other countries around the world. Well, Staufen closed its doors a little over a year ago. That's right. It's just gone. No more nosodes, no more specialty homeopathics, no more anything for which they were a leading well respected business and alternate pharmaceutical company. Just gone.

I see two factors in the demise of Staufen:

- 1) All the controversy and regulation with CODEX in Europe and around the world. There was just too much regulation, too much restriction and too many attempts to over-generalize the production of these remedies into an internationally acceptable format.
- 2) Electronic "recording" of remedy information.

And there is that word again. All of those cabinets and shelves and cupboards of stored homeopathic ampules and test sets from the days of Dr. Voll, Dr. Kramer and Dr. Sturm* have simply become obsolete. With 21st Century technical "recording" capabilities they have all been replaced with a single DVD and your laptop. Homeopathic (and all) remedy information is now available in a digital format. Where will it take us next? I think this would fit on that future spacecraft on the way to Jupiter, don't you? And now – without all the hassles of importation and government regulation – every practitioner worldwide can have access to 10's of thousands of remedies not only for diagnostic purposes but also for therapeutic application.

It is time for all of us to look at and think about the possibilities for our practices in terms of how information, technology and energy will affect them in the coming months and years. Please don't misunderstand me on this however, as I go back to other rants (oh sorry – other editorials) that I have published. As important as the future is to how we proceed in our current everyday practice we must remember that the future is built on and developed from the past.

“The future is an unknown, but a somewhat predictable unknown. To look to the future we must first look back upon the past. That is where the seeds of the future were planted. I never think of the future. It comes soon enough.” Albert Einstein.

It is a tribute to the genius of practitioners and researchers such as Dr. Voll, Dr. Morell, Dr. Popp, Prof Heine and Dr. Schimmel that we are already utilizing information and energy to assess and treat our patients. But it is the developments and changes that we are witnessing today in such companies as Med-Tronik that will bring these venerable “old” methods into this era of digital and information medicine. We need to pay attention to these changes.

Going back to my premise of the spacecraft with humans aboard, it is easy, space saving and economical to incorporate the four major methods recommended by OIRF into that journey (the Russians did some of this in their space program long ago), or into your practice for that matter, to create a sustainable and renewable Biological Medicine practice. And it’s all energy and information under the umbrella that OIRF has called Biological Medicine since 1982. Here are the four recommendations outlined in one of my previous rants:

- 1) Inhaled Ionized Oxygen – Provides pure energy to the body without the need for processing. Gives the body the energy to heal.
- 2) BioPhoton Light Therapy – Information is transferred inter- and intra-cellularly by photons. This is your communication pathway for the information.
- 3) MORA[®] BioResonance Therapy – Assessing the body’s situation through point and medication testing (EAV, Vega, Cornelissen, etc.); while therapy measures the energy and information of the body, processes it (via amplification, filtration, inversion, etc.) and sends it back to the patient to promote self healing.
- 4) Pulsed ElectroMagnetic Field Therapy – To reassert and stabilize the body’s response to the earth’s natural magnetic field.

In considering the efficacy of our practice and its viability into the future, it all comes back to what we are each prepared to invest in and to utilize. First must be knowledge through education which will always enrich us and can never be taken away from us. Then we have to look at the “tools of our trade”. Which methods or devices will work best for the most reasonable price for the majority of our patients? Times are changing as they always seem to do, but it is how we respond to that change that will predict our patient care and effectiveness into the future.

“The future is now. Roll up your sleeves and let your passion flow. The country we carry in our hearts is waiting.” Bruce Springsteen.

In closing, I found a bunch of different sites when I Googled “future predictions”. To say the least, it was interesting and thought provoking reading. Here’s a couple that I found:

FutureForAll.Org

Long list of predictions under Biotech/Medicine (plus multiple other topics) included:

Extended Life

Organ replacement

Designer bodies

Personalized drugs

Human cloning

Virtual/Robot medicine

Age reversal

A capsule that can be swallowed which will cure most diseases

And so on . . .

FutureTimeline.net (very interesting site)

Many predictions outlined within a yearly-based timeline. Some really cool stuff!

Yours in health,

Carolyn

Foci and Disturbance Fields In the Dental and Lower Jaw Areas

“Victim” and “Perpetrator”: The Causal Analysis with System Diagnostics

By Gottfried Cornelissen, DMD and Jens Tesmer, DSc

In a holistic medicine individual organs (biophysical) are not isolated, but rather are considered embedded in the overall system of the organism. The main focus is on the connections and the whole, which is expressed for example in the Meridian System and in the teachings of the Ground System According to Pischinger.

The Meridian System represents a neuro-vegetative connection system of the organs. However with the Ground System [1] it concerns a polymer-containing strongly aqueous matrix, passed through by vessels, nerves and connective tissue cells which border on the organ parenchymal cells. The decisive discovery of Prof. Alfred Pischinger was that generally no direct contact exists between the arteries, veins, lymph vessels and vegetative nerve endings on the one hand and the organ cells on the other hand. Thus a free space lies between the vessels and the organ cells which must be passed through, for every transfer to the cell it is now substantial and informational in nature. The state of this transit route determines all supply as well as all disposal processes of the cells.

This border space in the Ground System decides on health or illness. In this space emerging blockages, solidifications or regulation disturbances must absolutely be considered for understanding of the pathogenetic processes.

The burdening of the Ground System is equally affected with the burdening of the organs because of their detoxification, supply and regularization.

Since the middle of the last century, we are able to record an increased burden [2] on the Ground System through increased storage of proteins and carbohydrates from food as well as from heavy metals, pharmaceuticals and environmental poisons. This not only has consequences for therapy, which must adjust for the broad tendencies of reduced detoxification ability and chronification of all illness processes, but also for the corresponding diagnosis procedures such as ElectroAcupuncture According to Voll [EAV].

However, if the connection of Voll's measuring points with the organs is hindered by Ground System blockages, the diagnosis of organ pathologies over Voll's meridian related measuring points is also inevitably error-afflicted.

The System Diagnostic of MORA[®] BioResonance represents a way out. This works independent of the state of the Ground System and is able to localize and to determine the extent of the problem while it places the burden in correlation with the relevant organ.

As a result, one proceeds according to a stereotypical system which considers all conceivable illness fields of medicine, from electrosmog to acidosis, vaccination and pathogen burdens to the wide range of environmental toxins, etc. finally up to the Psyche. In the Test Set the burdened fields are arranged so that originating from the universal they move out in a funnel-shape towards the specific burdening fields. Additionally, all important organs are in fact listed near the noxae in a logical sequence from the head, included among the cerebral areas, through the internal organs and to the vascular, nervous and skeletal systems. It is guaranteed by this procedure that the cause is found after going through the hierarchical sequence of possible complications. The unequivocal Yes/No answer is produced because basically only resonances are measured, in fact independent from environmental disturbance influences like for example unshielded electrosmog (WLAN, mobile radio), and thus a high reproducibility results.

The first advantage of System Diagnostics lies in the fact that a focus is reliably diagnosable and this already in an early stage. For example, a focus is visible in an X-ray exposure only in the later stages. The focus, e.g. in a tooth, is functionally connected through the corresponding meridian with the affiliated organ, as is represented as an example in Fig. 1 for the Large Intestine meridian. Both partners are always affected, the tooth as well as also the organ.

Figure 1: Lung / Large Intestine meridian and accompanying tooth areas. In the lower jaw Teeth 36/37 or 46/47 and in the upper jaw 14/15 or 24/25.

Focus Homolateral Related meridian Clinical-morphological		Superordinate Disturbance field Ubiquitous Vegetative-dystonia
Cranio-caudal = 30% ↓ Dental “granuloma”, tonsils, sinus	= 70% ↑ Caudo-cranial Appendicitis, adnexitis, cholecystitis	Environment	Amalgam Palladium Plastics Root [canal] fillings

Figure 2: The focus (for instance a dental root granuloma) has a local effect on the affiliated meridian-related organ; however only for about 30%. More often the corresponding organ causes the local focus (approx. 70%). In comparison the disturbance fields from the environment or the diffuse dental materials have an effect on the vegetative nervous system. [Note translation appears in lower colored box.]

This now further raises the question about the actual cause of the inflammation events. Is it originally about a damage of the organ and following in the tooth, thus about an organ-dental relationship, or vice versa about a dental-organ relationship? Who got ill first? Is the tooth with its focus a cause or is the organ the cause? As is often presumed the answer is not the dental focus as the cause, but rather in most cases it is the organ (Fig. 2). If one compares the surfaces of the intestine and of the focus relatively (Fig. 3) then these circumstances are illustrated. The second decisive advantage of System Diagnostics lies in the reliable finding of the cause of certain inflammation events.

Figure 3: Relative importance of the dental granuloma, the skin surface and the whole of the intestinal surface. As a focus is the tooth the cause or the “victim”?

In practice diagnosis occurs through a correlation test. At a summation point on the hand, which is not meridian related, it is checked whether the nosode allows an organ to return to its normal value again. The nosode would then be the cause and organ the “victim”.

An Example: The nosode “Kieferostitis” brings the organ “Colon” into balance. The jaw ostitis is responsible for the intestinal illness. This case is rather rare. More frequently the nosode “Chronische Colitis” brings the organ “Mandibula” into balance. The chronic colitis is then responsible for the irritation in the lower jaw. (Fig. 4)

The effects:

- Does a tooth-jaw focus have an effect on an organ (e.g. the bowel or the knee joint), or
- Does the organ (e.g. the bowel) feedback and irritate the tooth/jaw area (e.g. localized gum inflammation or necrosis of the tooth nerve).

The correlation test of a nosode and an organ preparation brings basic clarification. The nosode is always the “perpetrator” and the organ preparation is always the “victim”.

- Example: If the nosode “Kieferostitis” [jaw ostitis] brings “Colon” into balance → jaw ostitis is responsible for intestinal illness, e.g. chronic colitis (seldom!)
- Example: However if the nosode “Chronische Colitis” brings the organ [preparation] “Mandibula” into balance → chronic colitis is responsible for the irritation in the lower jaw (often!)

Figure 4: Is the tooth the cause or is it the organ which has an effect on the tooth?

Which are the most important issues with dental foci now?

Often you find a chronic ostitis in empty alveoli. Indeed the tooth does not exist anymore, but here an inflammation event still continues. The wisdom teeth of the lower jaw are of particular importance on the basis of their diverse relations with important organs and organ systems (Figure 5). They are the fulcra and pivot points of the whole dental system. One non-positioned wisdom tooth is always an indication of a weak adrenal gland, low stress tolerance, weak immune system and low blood pressure. Childhood ear infections subsequently change over into tonsillitis, further into nasal sinusitis and finally lead into problems with the wisdom teeth. This sequence runs out stereotypically.

1. Chronic Ostitis (mostly in empty alveola).
2. Wisdom tooth of the lower jaw
On the basis of the relation to the important organs (systems):
 - a) Adrenal gland → immune system
 - b) Triple Warmer → hormone system
 - c) Small Intestine → Peyer's Patches → immune system
 - d) Heart/Circulation → Heart attack, stroke

Superordinate disturbance fields like environmental influences, for example in the form of electrosmog, but also geopathic and local disturbance fields of dental-medical materials and scars, behave differently than foci whose effects underlie clear clinical and morphological characteristics. Their non-meridian related effect is common to them (Fig. 2). Rather they have a diffused non-local effect on the whole vegetative nervous system and become apparent as faulty regulation in the form of various symptoms (heart/circulation, indigestion and headaches, among other things).

Their meaning is rather over estimated in the literature, because with a blocked Ground System the disturbance impulse hardly reaches the related organ, but rather fizzles out sooner since the remote action of chronic inflammation foci presupposes certain reaction and compensation capacities exactly in this Ground System.

Summary

The cause of a symptom is seldom found at the same place of appearance. Accordingly a diagnostic system which fulfills the following conditions should stand at the beginning of every medical examination:

- It should incorporate an overview of all organs and their possible burdens and deficits. The burdens and deficits can be associated with the relevant organ and can be correlated with them, i.e. where does the burden or the deficit have an effect?
- It should be able to arrange and quantify all diagnosed burdens and deficits hierarchically, and in the course of this to make a distinction between the top burdens from the minor burdens. The quantification would be a unique positional characteristic.
- Thus it should recognize the internal logic of an illness, speak of the location which states the entire illness course, expose and produce a therapy from it.

The System Diagnostics of MORA[®] BioResonance according to Dr. Cornelissen fulfills these standards.

Authors:

Dr. med. dent. Gottfried Cornelissen is a dentist and expert in natural healing methods with his own natural healing practice in Rostock-Warnemünde. Since 1988 he has employed MORA[®]-Therapy. Since 1993 he is a lecturer for biophysical medicine and since 1997 also an international lecturer and speaker for MORA[®]-Therapy. He has published numerous books and articles in the technical literature. Additionally he developed the so called System Diagnostics as a holistic test program. At the present his noteworthy cancer diagnostics and therapy have found great resonance.

Jens Tesmer, DSc, Dipl. Biology, has worked as a freelance biologist since 2013 and does research within this scope among others as a guest scientist at the Technical University of Hamburg as well as for Med-Tronik GmbH in Friesenheim. Previously he was employed as a scientific coworker in various research facilities of the University of Greifswald and finally the Max-Planck Institute for Dynamics of Complex Technical Systems in Magdeburg. The focus of his work lies in the meaning of water for health and the effect of electromagnetic fields on the organism.

- A special report with accurate English translation of a series of seven German language articles initially published by Prof. Dr. Heine in 2011. Total of 48 pages with information that is mandatory reading for all practitioners of orthodox and complementary medicine. Available from OIRF in electronic (PDF) or print formats for $30.

[2] In my ongoing efforts with the translation work I do for OIRF, it is my goal – my standard – to give you the exact words and meaning of the German author. In other words I consider myself as a translator, and not as an interpreter who would insert their own opinion or “interpretation” to what was said in German. In this article Dr. Cornelissen made a very clear distinction between what he considers a “disturbance” as opposed to a “burden” or “stress” factor. In all cases I have translated his use of each word exactly.

There is a very real difference here in that there can be a “disturbance (field)” in the body (even internally generated), whereas a “burden” or “stress” in this context is primarily an external influence that can or does create a disturbance. The usual translation in the literature tends to haphazardly interchange these terms, but for this article (even though it sometimes doesn't “read” right in English) I have carefully preserved an exact translation so that you can see Dr. Cornelissen's meaning. Here the word burden is primarily used in the sense of an external factor which is stressing, polluting or (over)burdening the body. CLW

A New Report

The Ground Regulation System (GRS)

By o. Univ.Prof. Dr.rer.nat. med.habil. Hartmut Heine

A few years after his serious illness in 2011 Prof. Dr. Hartmut Heine published a series of seven articles on the Ground Regulation System. I [Carolyn Winsor] was honored to be able to translate this incredible research into English for the first time and to publish it in our newsletter, "The Bridge".

As I worked my way through translation of the first article, the wealth of knowledge and understanding imparted in even that introductory article left me scrambling for dictionaries, research documents hidden away in the old OIRF library and way beyond "Google searches" to make sure that I was doing justice to the information Prof. Dr. Heine was imparting. Combined with the succeeding six further articles, his gift to us of knowledge and of understanding is truly priceless.

In respect for Prof. Heine I have merged those seven articles into one single report and have republished it separate from that older newsletter. With a total of 48 (mind-blowing) pages, this work is not just "worthwhile" reading, but mandatory reading for all practitioners of orthodox and complementary medicine. Available in electronic or print format for $30, here is an outline of the contents:

- Part 1 – The Ground Regulation [A History and Background]
- Part 2 – GRS as a non-linear system – Structure, function and determined chaos
- Part 3 – GRS as a non-linear system– Structural components of the extracellular matrix (ECM)
- Part 4 – Spatial structure of the ECM and material transport within the system
- Part 5 – Contact, limitation and clogging up: Cell adhesion, basal membrane and glycosylation
- Part 6 – Functional relations of the ground regulation with the central nervous system
- Part 7 – The Ground Regulation and the Circadian Rhythm
 - The Ground Regulation and Alzheimer Dementia

Special Reports:

1) Report on LM Potencies. Translated and prepared by Dr. Walter D. Sturm based on the work of Dr. Samuel Hahnemann. This is pivotal information for all homeopaths. In the last years of his life Dr. Hahnemann turned solely to the use of LM potencies for his patients instead of the "usual" C and X potencies still utilized today. This knowledge was suppressed for nearly 80 years and revolutionized the practice of homeopathy when that famous 6th edition of his Organon of Medicine was finally published. Read the story and see the meticulous research and translation left us by Dr. Sturm. See further information on this important report at this link. 51 Pages. $40

2) The Problem of A and Inverted A in Homeopathic Nosodes. Translated and prepared by Dr. Walter D. Sturm based on the research of Gottfried Cornelissen, DMD. Advanced BioResonance information. 4 Pages. $5

3) A Critical Examination of Current EAV-Diagnosis, the Mebe-Ampule and Filter Procedure. Translated and prepared by Dr. Walter D. Sturm based on the research of Gottfried Cornelissen, DMD. Digital single oint mwasurement according to Dr. Cornelissen. Advanced BioResonance and EAV-Diagnostic information. 14 Pages. $10

4) The Genital System. Translated by Carolyn L. Winsor; revised and edited by Sean Christian Marshall, DSc based on the work and research of Jean-Claude Darras, MD. Advanced traditional acupuncture information explaining the energetics of the genital system including disorders and treatment. 23 Pages. $25

Carolyn's Comment: Recently we have watched some of our top rank Naturopaths going back to the books to prepare for the dreaded “prescribing exam”. Personally I wonder about why our NDs are being trained and examined to prescribe (allopathic) medications when as Naturopaths they would normally “prescribe” homeopathics, supplements, herbs, etc. On the other side of the coin we are seeing our homeopathics and natural remedies being taken off the market by Health Canada and the US FDA. Where can we now turn for remedies for our patients? Note that Sanum, Heel and other North American “discontinued” remedy companies are definitely licensed and included in the remedy software above . . .

"EXTENSION TRAINING" PROGRAM IN MODERN & TRADITIONAL ACUPUNCTURE

Over twelve hundred pages of printed materials incorporating applicable materials from the supplementary textbook (An Outline of Chinese Acupuncture) and set of four charts (by China Cultural Corp.). Program starts off assuming you know nothing about acupuncture (a good place to start even if only as a thorough review of the basics) and takes you right through to the most heavy-duty advanced aspects of true, 'energetical' acupuncture. The finest and most comprehensive material in the English language, covers all seventy-one meridians of traditional acupuncture; that 'missing sixty percent' of acupuncture knowledge most "acupuncturists" have never even heard of; and, the modern electronic 'needle-less' treatment methods (Electro-Acupoint Therapy) now so popular.

Over 3,000 students were originally enrolled in this famous Extension Training Program, and the OICS graduate listings read like a "Who's Who of Acupuncture" in the English speaking world. This program takes you as far as anyone possibly can in a 'written' format prior to the clinical finesse and practicum needed to round out your acupuncture study to professional levels.

FULL THIRTY-THREE LESSON PROGRAM NOW AVAILABLE ON DVD

Price includes disc with all 33 Lessons, applicable supplementary textbook (An Outline of Chinese Acupuncture) passages and representation of set of acupuncture charts (China Cultural Corporation set of four). [Current editions of the textbook and charts can be easily obtained from suppliers of acupuncture books and supplies.] Price does not include printed materials, binders; or, any tutorial, examination, or certification privileges. Follow above link for full details. Full set on one disc available for CDN $165.
